

Communications Internship

Sustainable Long Island's Communications Department is accepting applications for an intelligent, eager and resourceful student to work in communications this summer. The department's work focuses on communications with the public and target audiences through outreach, media relations, publications, etc. The intern's general duties will include writing for the media, updating media lists, identifying opportunities for Sustainable Long Island to be in the media, as well as developing new strategies to advance social networking to educate and engage young people in the issues of sustainability.

Required qualifications include:

- Excellent organizational and communication skills.
- Excellent writing and editing skills.
- Basic office skills including scanning, faxing, and answering phone calls.
- Excellent web research skills.
- A flexible, independent, work style.
- An interest in sustainability issues, Long Island's future, and/or communications work for a non-profit organization.

The internship will begin immediately and will continue through mid-December. Letters of recommendation and documentation of internship completion can be provided, as well as course credit with participating schools.

To apply, please send a cover letter and resume to stuttle@sustainableli.org no later than September 10, 2009 with the subject heading COMMUNICATIONS INTERN.